DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 is confusing in that the phrase "or a magnetizable element" is not included with "said magnet" when the positioning is mentioned- it appears that it should be in order for the claim to be consistent.

In claim 2 there is no antecedent basis for "magnetic".

Claim 8 is indefinite because the preamble calls for aggregation but there is no positive recitation of such a step.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United

Art Unit: 1651

States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jones et al(5672505).

Jones teaches a cell culture device which incorporates a magnet(see esp col 5) to attract beads. The reference anticipates the claim subject matter.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bruno et al(5972721).

Bruno teaches a cell culture device which incorporates a magnet(see esp figs and abstract) to attract immuno-specific beads. The reference anticipates the claim subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fodstad et al(6184043) and Bruno et al .

Fodstad and Bruno both teach attaching antibodies to magnetic beads and then binding said immuno-specific beads to a target. Upon binding, the targets are aggregated using a magnetic field. The targets are typically cells contained in a vessel. The references don't clearly teach all of applicant's preferred embodiments, however the references clearly suggest a system which incorporates a culture vessel and a magnetic field-producing means to be used to aggregate magnetic beads bound to cells (or like targets). The location or specific type of magnet used would be an obvious matter of design choice given the teachings of the references to one of ordinary skill in the art absent any unexpected result.

Accordingly, the claimed invention was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.
